When Sahil started out in 1997, we discovered through surveys and seminars, that very few people acknowledged that the subject of Child Sexual Abuse was a real issue to be taken seriously in Pakistan. From the start Sahil has disputed this misconception, and over the years the Sahil team has worked incessantly using innovative approaches such as animated stories, puppet shows, specialized training to the media, lawyers, police and teachers, to bring this devastating issue to the attention of the masses.

During 2016, Sahil deployed a combination of cable and national television channels to educate the public on the dangers of early forced marriages and the need for conflict resolution at the community and family level. Both issues are precursors of child sexual abuse.

Working on factors that affect the prevalence of child sexual abuse represents a significant strategic shift from the past. It's a realization that our work needs to consider the entire subject of child protection to bring meaningful changes to the mindset and behavior of the masses, thereby limiting the number of potential child abusers.

Sahil's strategy is discussed at every board meeting. The collective input of the board enables us to make course corrections to our overall approach ensuring it is better targeted and more effective. Continuing on the institution development theme, the Board decided to provide formalized training on corporate governance to its members.

As I mentioned last year, we are always on the lookout for ways to enrich the skill mix and diversity of the board. This year Maliha Hussain joined the Sahil board. Maliha has extensive experience of program evaluation and design in the development sector across South Asia, Central Europe and the Middle East.

On behalf of the Board of Sahil I would like to thank all the staff, volunteers and partners of Sahil for their hard work in 2016. Finally, I would like to extend a special thank you to The Royal Norwegian Embassy and CFLI, DFATD, Canada for their support in 2016.
Sahil receiving the National Human Rights Award 2016 by the Ministry of Human Rights has been the high point of Sahil achievement for this year.

Sahil continues to broaden its child protection program by extending its work in new Union Councils (UC) of its existing program districts. Child protection is promised through establishing Child Protection Networks at the village level of these UCs.

Sahil Midterm program review report by The Royal Norwegian Embassy declared Sahil training of Lady Health Workers (LHWs) as the most active and efficient group who disseminated child protection messages in the communities. The success of the LHWs program encouraged Sahil to expand the training program to the new UCs.

Adding a new initiative Sahil has provided trainings on “Peace and conflict resolution” under the project funded by the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade Development (DFATD), Canada. At the National Peace Conference, arranged by Sahil, recommendations for a peace policy were presented by community members to Barrister Zafar Ullah, Special Assistance to Prime Minister on Human Rights, and Mr. Ashtar Ausaf, Special Assistance to Prime Minister on Law.

Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI), Canada supported Sahil with further interventions to address the recently exposed Pakistan's biggest child sexual abuse scandal which occurred in Union Council (UC) Hussain Khan Wala in district Kasur of Punjab. Sahil was also a team member of Children Advocacy Network (CAN) to follow up the case.

Impact of Sahil trainings can be seen through the increase of requests, through schools and organizations, from many new districts for trainings on child protection for teachers, parents and direct interventions with children.
Sahil free legal aid services handling child sexual abuse cases is now offering free legal aid to women victims of domestic violence.

The long term support of the Royal Norwegian Embassy has been the reason behind the success of Sahil. It is because of their continuous commitment to child protection in Pakistan that Sahil is where it is today.
Sahil work competency is entirely due to the dedication of all Sahil staff members. I salute them for their commitment.

About Sahil

Sahil Vision:
Har Bacha Mehfooz…..safe, secure and protected

Sahil Mission:
To develop a protective environment for children free from all forms of violence especially child sexual abuse.

Experience and expertise in child protection:

Sahil is one of the few Non-Profit Organizations which has been working on child protection since 1996 with a special focus on the issue of child sexual abuse and exploitation.

Our work includes capacity building of teachers, parents, communities, law enforcing agencies, government departments and CSOs, crisis intervention, free legal aid and free counseling services for victims of violence, advocacy, research and publications and a help-line and website.

Sahil interventions have been introduced to more than 4 million people in districts of Pakistan, directly and indirectly, and have always received a warm welcome and acceptance of the issue from the communities at large, the district administration, and local NGOs.

The issue of child sexual abuse had never been openly discussed before at the community level. Sahil broke this silence and created the space through a sensitive approach which involved local government representatives, community leaders, school teachers and administrative authorities.

Sahil has formed Child Protection Networks (CPN) having membership of male and female community members, in more than 226 villages of 42 Union Councils of 13 districts. Sahil's approach entailed an institutional innovation which engaged local health workers, religious leaders, activists, parents, children lawyers! police officers, district administration officials and NGO representatives. It developed a partnership approach which secured the sustainable commitment of these local stakeholders by establishing Child Protection Network (CPN) for providing on-going support and outlining a procedure which was standardized yet accommodated local sensitivities.

Sahil's technical innovation in terms of the development of training tools such as posters, animations, interactive CD games, comic books, docu-dramas, puppet shows, magazines and children's games is widely acknowledged.

Community Based Child Protection
The ability of a family to provide care and protection to their children needs a safe, protective environment, and access to child and family support at the community level. The community is a crucial source of potential support, since it includes friends, neighbors, traditional leaders, elders, teachers, youth groups, religious leaders, and others who provide valuable care and protection. Sahil extended its community based child protection program to new Union Council, in the program districts.

New Union Councils in Program Districts:

Sahil identified 5 most populated villages in these Union Councils to build the capacity of community members on child rights and child protection. Partners supported Sahil for arranging community training sessions.

Separate sessions were conducted for female and male community members. A total of 3,980 community members including 2,254 female and 1,726 male participated in these sessions. Sahil provided 6 posters and Meri Hifazat book to the participants for sharing this information in their communities. A total of 24,520 adults and 23,895 children have information on child protection through replication by trained members.
Child Protection Networks (CPNs):

Sahil established Child Protection Networks in 40 target villages having a membership of 583 community members with 292 female and 291 male participants.

The fundamental role of the community-based Child Protection Networks is to protect children within the communities from abuse and violence.

For a successful intervention Sahil CPNs involve communities, families, parent, teachers, religious leaders, health workers, elected representatives and government authorities. The overall child protection is to protect children from abuse, violence, exploitation and neglect.
Referral Mechanism for child protection:

Child vulnerability is a complex phenomenon and needs to involve all stakeholders. Effective referral systems are essential in ensuring that vulnerable children and/or households are identified, their needs correctly assessed and that they receive cross-sectoral support, until there has been a positive outcome for that child and/or family.

Sahil strives to connect the CPNs and service providers for a quick response on child protection issues. In this regard meetings of CPN members with local administration, NGOs, lawyers and police officials were arranged in all 8 districts. A total of 216 participants including 168 male and 48 female attended these events. A contact list for future correspondence was shared with all the participants.

Outcome:

In Abbottababd, Social Welfare Child Protection Unit agreed to facilitate Sahil CPNs in registration with Social Welfare, and Sahil will build the capacity of their UC level committees on child protection.
Responsive Education and Advocacy For Child Protection

Involving agents of change

Lady Health Workers (LHWs):

At the village level Lady Health Workers are playing a very important role in dissemination of information on basic health and hygiene. However the child protection aspect is missing from their course work. Capacity building sessions on child protection, growth and development, effects of early marriages, and gender based violence were conducted for 183 LHWs, working in 8 target Union Councils. They will share child protection messages during their visits to household, and record the message delivered on provided forms. These forms are submitted to the LHW supervisors for Sahil.

Outcome:

Sahil Midterm program review by The Royal Norwegian Embassy stated that, LHWs were the most active and efficient group who disseminated child protection messages in the communities.

Para Counseling Skills:

Child protection requires a community support system to address issues related to trauma and other psychosocial problems. Daily life issues and have significant effect on behaviors and dealing with each other. There is a need in the community to help understand their role of counseling to help adults or children who require any kind of psychological help. A total of 4 training events were held, one each in Abbottabad, Haripur, Lahore and Sheikhupura. A total of 76 (female 46, male 30) participants including LHWs, teachers, volunteers, CPN members, activist from partner organizations and religious leaders, from the community attended these events.

Youth Trainings:

Sahil believes youth are a force for positive change. Active participation of young people in capacity building opportunities helps them gain confidence and skills that can profoundly transform how they perceive themselves, their surroundings, and their options. Sahil engaged young people through two interventions Aflatoun and Men Engage program. These interventions respectively help to look at the importance of social and financial implications in every day life and the involvement of men and boys in reducing gender based violence. A total of 2 sessions were held with 57 participants, university boys and girls, in Abbottabad and Lahore.
Citizen Community Boards (CCB):

Citizen Community Boards (CCBs) are registered bodies with Social Welfare department. This is a community based support system for handling local issues through referral building with different government departments. In continuation of last year Training Of Trainers (TOT) of CCBs of Social Welfare Department Rawalpindi, Sahil trained 22 CCBs in Rawalpindi, Taxila, and Murree.

Follow-up of CCBs Training:

The 83 trained members from 22 CCBs shared child protection messages with 1590 adults and Meri Hifazat book was shared with 780 children in their communities.

Outcome:

Naheed Parveen had been trained by Sahil on Child Protection. She further trained Razia who said that she had studied Sahil materials carefully. She said “Before I was not very concerned about the protection of children. Last month my younger son age 12 years did not want to go to school. He complained about a boy in his school who was harassing him every day along with his other friends.”
Interventions in local hospitals and police stations:

The objectives of child protection in communities cannot be achieved without the involvement of health and law officials, as they are the first persons who come into contact with the victim family. For public awareness regarding registration of an FIR on child abuse cases, Sahil launched a campaign to display Sahil FIR posters in hospitals/BHUs and police stations.

An introduction of Sahil counseling and legal aid services and display of Sahil FIR poster was done in 8 hospitals, 1 Rural health Centre, 4 BHUs, 1 clinic, 1 MCH, and 1 dispensary in 7 districts.

A total of 29 staff members were present at the time of orientation.

Sahil FIR posters were also displayed at prominent places in police stations for information of general public and police officials. A total of 17 police stations in 6 UCs of Sukkur, Khairpur, Jaffarabad Abbottabad, Haripur and Sohbatpur were visited by Sahil Regional Coordinators.

A total of 32 police officers participated in child protection discussion.

Training of Police Officials:

Deputy Inspector General, Sukkur specially requested Sahil for training on child protection for police officers. The training was attended by 25 police officers from different police stations of Sukkur district.
Primary School Teacher Training:

Teacher's training was held to cover all government and private primary schools in 8 target Union Councils, one each of district Sheikhupura, Lahore, Abbottabad, Haripur, Sukkur, Khairpur, Jaffarabad and Sohbatpur. The main aim of these trainings is to build the capacity of primary school teachers on child rights and to address protection issues.

A total of 296 teachers, 178 female, and 118 male, from 186 government/private primary schools attended these training events. The teachers share protection strategies with 15,882 children, 8,596 boys and 7,286 girls through Meri Hifazat book, a story cum coloring book.

Case study:

Sahil training program on prevention of Child Sexual Abuse has significant importance and recognition as seen in the following story.

Milestones of a journey:

In 2004, Sahil training department conducted a teacher training in Murree Tehsil. It was the time when nobody was ready to discuss child sexual abuse and it was considered a taboo topic.

But in the same training, Ms. Kathreen Sirdar, a participant said “, It is our issue but we try to cover it up. I will never do that.” She replicated Sahil protection messages in her school, with 450 children who became the beneficiaries of the training.

This was not end of her commitment. She continued that mission.

In 2014 when she was transferred to another school in Josephabad, Khushab, she contacted Sahil again to conduct a training for teachers and parents. The children were also shown the puppet show on child protection messages.

These trainings, had a total of 651 participants including teachers, parents and children.

In 2015 as principal of Presentation Convent School in Risalpur she gave an orientation about Sahil program to Convent schools of Peshawar and requested them to contact Sahil for training.

In 2016 Peshawar Convent schools arranged the training for 43 teachers and 841 children.
In 2016, as a principal in Presentation Convent School, Risalpur. She yet again approached Sahil team to convey child protection messages in the school. At the end of training they requested the trainers to burn a candle, and share the candle flame with all the participants. It was a symbol of promise to continue to convey Sahil message to other people.

Sahil trainers reflected their emotions in poetry:

Altogether, approximately 2,000 people received Sahil protection messages through Ms. Kathreen Sirdar's efforts. She wishes to spread Sahil protection messages in all Presentation Convent Schools.

This is the story of a commitment of a single participant; there are several others who have contributed in this way.

Secondary School Teacher Training:

Adolescent need extra care and attention due to age specific emotional and physical changes. The objective of trainings of secondary school teachers is to enhance their information and ability on child protection and to deal with adolescent behavioral issues.

The trainings were attended by 194 teachers, 104 male 90 female from 49 government and private schools in 8 UCs, one each district of Sheikhupura, Lahore, Abbottabad, Haripur, Sukkur, Khairpur, Jaffarabad and Sohbatpur.

The trained teachers replicated the training with 15,845 children, 8,133 boys and 7,712 girls in their schools.
Impact of Sahil training program:
Sahil has been receiving constant requests from schools and organizations for trainings on child protection.

He scaled over the wall with her since the gate was locked. He took Hina to a room where he undressed himself and her. He slapped her and hit her with a belt falsely accusing her of breaking his son's arm. He also threatened to kill her with a hatchet if she told anyone. He raped her covering her mouth with his hand. This continued for 3 hours. She bled and was in severe pain. He then took her and dropped her off near her house. She told her sister everything when she reached home. Responsive Education and Advocacy For child Protection

As Sahil has evolved, so has the nature of its work. We have moved from being mere generators of materials to become a platform for sharing information, educating others, and providing support to those in need. This shift in focus has been driven by a desire to reach a wider audience and to make our work more accessible.

In the past year, we have produced a variety of materials, including articles, reports, and audio recordings. These have been shared on our website, social media, and through partnerships with other organizations. We have also continued to advocate for the rights of children, and have been involved in various campaigns and initiatives.

Looking forward, we aim to continue expanding our reach and impact. We will continue to produce high-quality materials and to advocate for children's rights. We will also seek to further enhance our collaboration with other organizations, and to explore new ways of reaching and supporting our target audience.

As Sahil, we remain committed to our mission of promoting responsive education and advocacy for child protection. We thank all those who have supported us in the past, and we look forward to working together towards a brighter future for children.
